FOR THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION

In the Matter of the Application of Minnesota Power for Authority to Increase Rates for Electric Service in the State of Minnesota

ORDER DENYING CITIZENS UTILITY BOARD
OF MINNESOTA'S MOTION TO RECONSIDER

To: All Persons on the Attached Service List

On February 24, 2017, a Petition to Intervene was filed by Citizens Utility Board of Minnesota (Petitioner). By Order dated March 6, 2017, the Administrative Law Judge denied the Petition. On March 13, 2017, Petitioner filed a Motion for Reconsideration. Petitioner alternatively requested its motion be certified pursuant to Minn. R. 1400.7600 (2015) for consideration by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC). On March 17, 2017, Clean Energy Organizations, a party to these proceedings, filed a letter supporting Petitioner's March 13, 2017 Motion for Reconsideration or certification.

For the reasons set forth in the accompanying Memorandum, the Administrative Law Judge makes the following:

ORDER

1. Petitioner's Motion for Reconsideration is DENIED.
2. Petitioner's alternative request to certify its motion to the PUC pursuant to Minn. R. 1400.7600 is DENIED.

Dated: April 13, 2017

JIM MORTENSON
Administrative Law Judge

MEMORANDUM

Reconsideration

There are no specific regulatory standards for reconsideration of a determination on a petition to intervene. Petitioner does not argue any standards, other than to assert that “a full and complete record will [not] be developed for the consideration of the Minnesota Public Utilities Commission,” and the Administrative Law Judge’s refusal to allow intervention “does not acknowledge the expertise and value that CUB can provide.”¹ Further, Petitioner argues that the Judge’s encouragement to work with other organizations advocating for the same constituencies Petitioner claims to advocate for “falls short of adequate representation for CUB’s interests.”²

Minn. R. 1400.8300 (2015) provides standards for a motion to reconsider, or holding a rehearing, on a final report issued by a judge which is binding upon any state agency. While Petitioner’s motion is not a motion to reconsider and that rule is not per se applicable, consideration of the bases described for granting reconsideration under Minn. R. 1400.8300 provides an effective frame for ensuring a fair consideration of Petitioner’s motion. The rule provides that reconsideration should be made “if it appears that to deny it would be inconsistent with substantial justice and any one of the following has occurred:

- A. irregularity in the proceedings whereby the moving party was deprived of a fair hearing;
- B. accident or surprise that could not have been prevented by ordinary prudence;
- C. material evidence newly discovered that with reasonable diligence could not have been found and produced at hearing;
- D. fraud upon the hearing process;
- E. mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect; or
- F. the decision is not justified by the evidence, or is contrary to law[.]”³

It is also important to reiterate the legal standard for making the determination on intervention as a party. A petition to intervene must “show how the petitioner’s legal rights, duties, or privileges may be determined or affected by the contested case[.]”⁴ The petitioner must also “show how the petitioner may be directly affected by the outcome or that petitioner’s participation is authorized by statute, rule, or court decision[.]”⁵ Finally, a petition in this case must “set forth the grounds and purposes for which intervention is sought; and shall indicate petitioner's statutory right to intervene if one should exist."⁶ If the petitioner can make these showings, and the petitioner's interest is not adequately represented by one or more of the existing parties to the case, the administrative law judge must allow intervention.⁷ "An order allowing intervention shall specify the extent of participation permitted the petitioner and shall state the judge's reasons."⁸

In its Motion for Reconsideration, Petitioner offers no allegation of irregularity in the handling of its Petition to Intervene. Petitioner does not assert or argue that an accident or surprise involving its petition occurred which could have been prevented by ordinary prudence. No allegations are made that new material evidence has been discovered since the ruling on the petition which, had it been available earlier, would have changed the result in the first instance. Petitioner makes no allegation of fraud in the process of making a determination on its petition, or that it made a mistake or engaged in inadvertent conduct or excusable neglect in its original petition. Finally, there is no allegation or argument that the Administrative Law Judge's decision to deny intervention was not justified by the evidence, or is contrary to law. Rather, Petitioner merely argues that, even though its constituents are represented by other parties to this matter, the Petitioner's perspective is unique and its expert witnesses will be necessary in "assisting the Commission and other intervenors in building a full and complete record[.]"⁹ This is not the standard for granting a petition to intervene. Given the lack of persuasive argument on any of the factors under the standard in Rule 1400.8300, or any other binding legal standard, there is no basis to reconsider the Order issued on March 6, 2017.¹⁰

Certification of Motion

Petitioner requests, alternatively, that this motion be certified to the PUC for consideration. The certification of motions to agencies is governed by Minn. R. 1400.7600. Pursuant to the rule, motions based on interpretation of Minn. R. 1400.6200 (2015) are not certifiable to an agency.¹¹ Interpretations of nearly all of the contested case rules are reserved for Administrative Law Judges. Thus, Petitioner's motion is not certified to the PUC.

¹⁰ This determination does not exclude Petitioner from offering exhibits, testimony, or otherwise questioning witnesses during the hearing in this matter. Minn. R. 1400.7150, subp. 1 (2015). "With the approval of the judge, any person may offer testimony or other evidence relevant to the case." Id.
